RE: Comments of the Minnesota Department of Commerce
Docket No. G011/M-25-69

Dear Ms. Bergman:

On August 1, 2025, Minnesota Energy Resources Corporation (MERC or the Company) filed a Demand Entitlement Filing (Petition) for its Consolidated System in Docket No. G011/M-25-69.<sup>1</sup> As part of this Petition, the Company requested changes to its proposed total entitlement level to serve firm customers for the upcoming 2025-2026 heating season. MERC requested that the Minnesota Public Utilities Commission (Commission) approve changes in the Company's recovery of the overall level of contracted capacity.

On September 2, 2025 the Minnesota Department of Commerce, Division of Energy Resources (Department) provided its initial comments on the Petition.<sup>2</sup> In its Comments, the Department recommended approval of the Company's Design-Day Analysis, but withheld its final recommendations for the remainder of the Company's Petition until after the Company filed its Reply Comments and its update in November 2025.<sup>3</sup> The Department also recommended MERC provide an update on the ANR Pipeline Company (ANRP) and Great Lakes Gas Transmission (Great Lakes or GLGT), rate cases at Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC) and MERC's efforts in those proceedings at FERC.<sup>4</sup>

On September 12, 2025 MERC filed its reply comments.<sup>5</sup> In its reply comments, MERC agreed with the Department's recommendations on the design-day analysis and agreed to provide an update regarding the GLGT and ANRP pending rate cases at FERC in MERC's November 2025 update to the Petition.<sup>6</sup>

On October 31, 2025 MERC filed its update to the Petition.<sup>7</sup> In its November Update, MERC provided an updated rate comparison using its October 2025 Purchased Gas Adjustment (PGA) rates and a minor correction to its off peak GLGT design-day requirement.<sup>8</sup> The correction is de minimis and does not impact the design day analysis for the heating season. In addition, MERC did not provide the requested update to the ANRP and GLGT pending rate cases at FERC. The Department notes that the GLGT rate case is currently going through settlement discussions.<sup>9</sup>

After review of the Company's reply comments and its November Update, the Department recommends accepting the Company's proposed level of demand entitlement and allowing MERC to recover the associated demand costs through the monthly PGA effective November 1, 2025.

Sincerely,

/s/ Dr. Sydnie Lieb
Assistant Commissioner of Regulatory Analysis
